And

Wholesale Grocery Business

Located on the main street in the Village of Scottsville, at the Junction of State Highways No.s 20 and 6, Albemarle County, Virginia.

AT AUCTION

Wednesday, July 6th, 3 P. M.

The main flour mill consists of a splendid five story frame building with full concrete basement and slate roof. The building is joined on the east side by a large warehouse, built - in garage with loading platform. It is also joined on the west side by a large two story warehouse with office and built-in garage. All the buildings are excellent for storage. The main building and both warehouses are fully rodded.

The mill is Allis-Chalmers equipped with rated horse power heavy duty General Electric Motor with low demand rates.

This mill enjoys a splendid exchange business from eight counties and also has a well established wholesale business on their private brands and has been successfully operated for many years. It is the only flour mill in Albemarle County including the City of Charlottesville and the only one of any size between Richmond and Lynchburg, the distance of 120 miles or in a 65 mile radius.

Possession on or before 60 days or possession at once if purchaser is interested in buying mill stock consisting of flour, feed, grain bags, hand trucks, scales, salt, phosphate soda, bleaching, powder, oils, grease, shop tools and wholesale grocery stock.

This business has been operated under the same management by E. L. Johnson for 21 years, operating both mill and wholesale grocery on profitable basis. If interested in a going business, don't fail to attend this sale.

Argentina 'Fire Ant' Seen Threat to Big Part of U.S.

MOBILE.—There's nothing so remarkable about Solenopsis Saevissima variety Richteri.

He's just a little fire ant from Argentina. He likes the Gulf coast climate and hasn't run across any serious natural enemies since stowing away to this country over 25 years ago.

As a result he has spread across a 10,000-square-mile area in Alabama, Florida, and Mississippi, attacking crops, seedlings, barnyard animals, and young game.

The damage credited to him is placed in the millions of dollars, and finally both state and federal conservation and agricultural officials are on his trail.

Gulf coast residents live with ants all their lives. There are over 80 species in the Mobile area, where this invader from South America established his beachhead. There are three other species of fire ants native to the Gulf coast.

This troublemaker and the three other species won their names because they "sting like fire." The Argentina fire ant is a little larger than other varieties.

It attacks plants and food, but unlike another so-called Argentina ant which has become a household pest, shuns sweets.

POULTRY TIPS FOR SUMMER

Poultry-raisers who are planning on high egg yields this fall and winter will want to adopt a systematic flock-management schedule this summer. Here are a few of the things the good poultryman should do—

1. Put birds on range when they are 6 weeks old, or as soon thereafter as weather conditions permit.

2. Provide range which is well-covered with succulent grass. Blue grass, Sudan grass, buffalo grass, alfalfa, and Ladino clover are some of the good range crops.

YOUNG GRASS IS BEST

3. Keep grass short by frequent mowing. If properly cared-for, range will provide up to 15 per cent of flock's food needs. Birds like young grass best.

4. Use light, movable range shelters. Move them at regular intervals to keep down disease, to preserve condition of the range crop, and to keep a supply of fresh green forages at hand.

5. Provide plenty of shade. If there are no trees, plant sunflowers.

6. Move feeders and waterers frequently, preferably every day.

ROTATE RANGE AREAS

7. If possible, do not use same piece of land for range during successive years. Rotation helps prevent disease.

8. Provide four inches of feeder space per bird. Use covered feeders to protect feed from rain.

9. Place hoppers near shelters on rainy days, in shade during hot days.

10. Use movable waterers. Be sure they have the capacity to satisfy the flock's requirements on the hottest days.

oad Engineer as Problems

William C. Poston, State High- resident engineer for Campbell Appomattox Counties is a man many problems.

r. Poston, whose office is in Ap- mattox, says his biggest problem making his road funds stretch to r all the necessary work.

unds would go a lot further, Mr. ston says, if the people of Camp- and Appomattox Counties un- stood his problems and guided ir actions accordingly.

Considerable road money, he said, pent to correct situations which d have been avoided in the first or instance, says Mr. Poston, necessary obstruction of highway nage ditches causes him untold ble. There are three main ses for this obstruction: improper maintenance or con- ction of private roads which en- onto the state highways; ultivation of right-of-way such plowing through ditch lines; Obstruction of outlet ditches by owners who divert surface nage from its natural course.

When drainage is blocked in any these fashions, water backs up d causes considerable road dam- - often causes flooding of pri- property. All of this, says Mr. ston, results in expenditure of d funds which could be well used general road improvements.

ther practices which cause ble for Mr. Poston and cost the e money are defacing of road and tramping debris on the right way, driving on shoulders, and discriminate establishment of rnouts by wood haulers and lum- ers.

If the people of Appomattox and mpbell were to stop these trouble making practices, there would be re money available for road im- ovements in the counties. And Mr. ston would be a much happier an.

He says he will be glad to dis- the matter of private entrances th the people of his residency at y time they wish to drop by his ce at Appomattox.

Funeral Of R. F. Ramsey

Mr. Robert Floyd Ramsey, 74, died June 30 at the Lynchburg General Hospital, after an illness of several weeks.

He was born in Charlotte County, son of the late John R. and Mollie Layne Ramsey. He moved to Appomattox in 1925. His wife, Mrs. Ava Morris Ramsey, preceded him to the grave 13 years ago.

He is survived by a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Ramsey; and two grandchildren, Misses Mary Ellen and Frances Ramsey, all of Appomattox; and two brothers, George R. Ramsey, of Brookneal, and Warner Ramsey, of Phenix; and four sisters, Mrs. Willie Sublett and Mrs. Oscar Myers, of Phenix, Mrs. Edward Childress, of Altavista, and Mrs. Neva Mason, of Wren.

Vote July 23 On Flue-cured Leaf Quotas

Approximately 125 flue-cured tobacco growers in Appomattox County are eligible to vote in the referendum to be held Saturday, July 23, on flue-cured tobacco marketing quotas, according to Bennett Harding, chairman of the County Agricultural Conservation Committee. The referendum will be held in accordance with the law which provides for marketing quotas on flue-cured tobacco for the 1950 crop. In the referendum, growers may vote for quotas for three years beginning with the 1950 crop; may vote for quotas for 1950 only; or they may vote against quotas. However, marketing quotas cannot be in effect unless approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum.

Marketing quotas furnish growers with a method of adjusting supply to demand and help growers obtain better prices for the tobacco they produce.

"Any person who has an interest in the 1949 crop of flue-cured tobacco as an owner, tenant, or share cropper is entitled to vote in the referendum," Mr. Harding said. "However, no person is entitled to more than one vote even though he may be engaged in production of flue-cured tobacco in two or more communities, counties or states."

Mr. Harding explained that, if marketing quotas are approved, individual acreage allotments will be continued in 1950. Individual allotments will be about the same as the 1949 allotment for any farm which has produced up to 75 per cent of its alloted acreage in any one of the last three years.

"If quotas are approved in this referendum, price support loans at 90 per cent of the parity price will be continued and will be available on the 1950 crop of flue-cured tobacco. Regardless of the outcome of this referendum, price support loans at 90 per cent of parity will be available on the 1949 crop," he said.

Bright Market Opening Set

BRIGHT LEAF SALES START SEPT. 12 IN VA.

The 1949 flue-cured tobacco crop will go on sale in the Virginia and North Carolina Old Belt starting on September 12, one day earlier than last year.

The date was set June 30 by the board of governors of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association at Raleigh, N. C. The board extended the sales day to five and a half hours, and continued the five-day sales week.

The rate of sales was set at 400 piles an hour and the maximum weight of each pile at 300 pounds.

HOLLAND WILKERSON, OF "SUNSHINE HOUR"

Holland Wilkerson, gospel singer of the "Sunshine Hour," WRVA, Richmond, will be at the Evergreen Methodist Church Sunday, July 10, at 11 A. M. He will also conduct a service at Memorial Methodist Church here Sunday at 8 P. M.

East-West trade talks in Germany are proposed.
